the C5 Effectiveness Test (Type 2) for AWS and Azure. While the BSI C5 type 1 attestation is a key date test, which only proves that the required security controls are in place and adequately described at the time of the test, a type 2 attestation also proves through random sampling over a longer period of time (usually 6-12 months) that these controls were actually operated effectively and thus fulfill their operational effectiveness. From the client's point of view, this type 2 certificate is therefore much more important than the existing type 1 certificates for AWS and Azure.

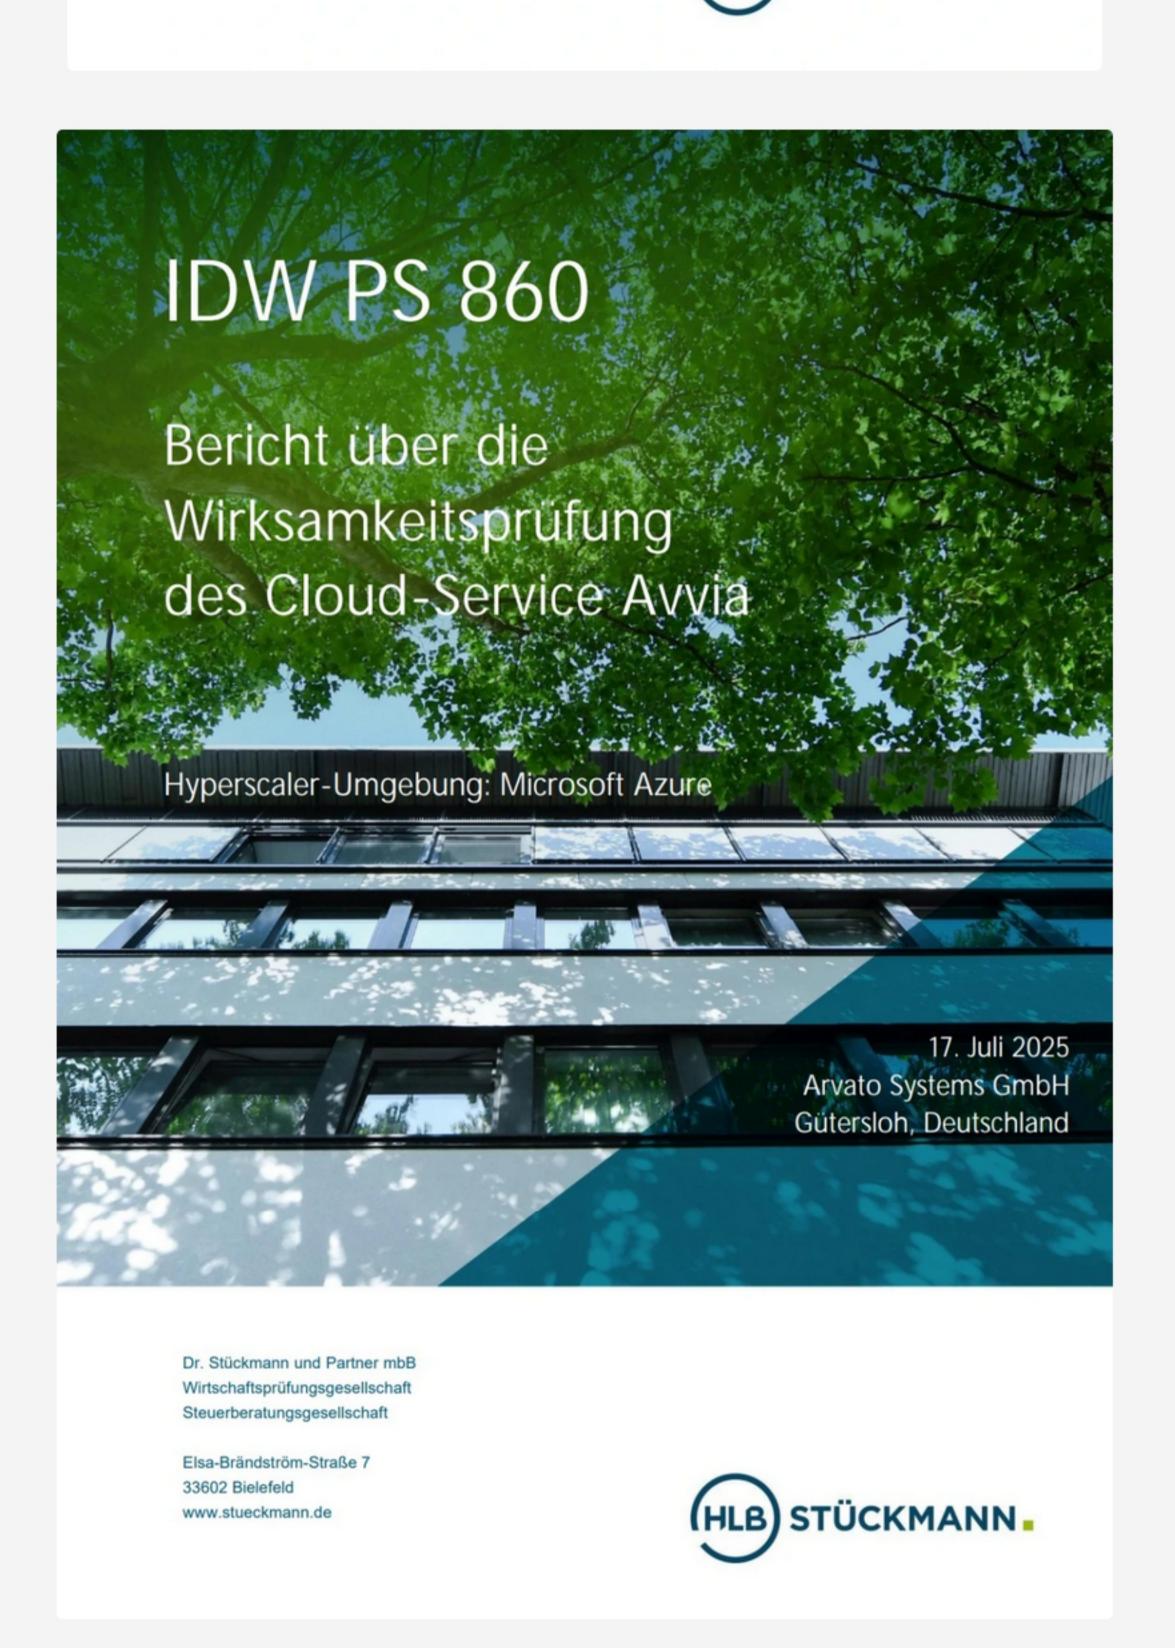

Both new certificates are valid from June 30, 2025 and are valid for one year.

What a reason to celebrate!

The complete test certificates are also available in Insight at the following Link.

A celebration also includes a thank you

We would like to thank all our supporting employees and teams across all locations; without you, the C5 certificate would not have been possible in such a short space of time. You have brought us a big step forward in the cloud area and also company-wide and enabled our clients in the financial and healthcare sectors to process data in compliance with the law.

Thank you

Here's a glimpse into the future: • The completion of the C5 testing work for the Arvato Systems Virtual Private Cloud (VPC) is

- planned for mid-August 2025. If you need proof from the auditors for your clients that we are actually working on this certificate as part of tenders etc., please contact us directly. • In parallel, we will start work on the C5 type 2 certificate for the Google Cloud (GC) in the
- next few days.

We will of course keep you up to date on the further status! The Avvia Team
